The Third Dinner in the Series: Randy Strauss, International Man of Veal

The Capital Grille: This is the 70th anniversary of Milwaukee's own Strauss Veal & Lamb. Did you always want to be part of the family business?

Randy Strauss: The first thing I ever wrote in kindergarten was, "When I grow up, I want to be a meat packer so I can help my dad pack meat."

TCG: What personal traits do you feel have contributed to your company's success?

RS: I'm a very focused person and I'm passionate about what we're doing—the direction we're taking the company.

TCG: Dining out must be a big part of your job.

RS: It is. And I'm fortunate. We travel the world on business and dine at the top restaurants with the finest chefs. It's exciting!

Randy Strauss, Co-President and CEO,
Strauss Veal & Lamb

TCG: What makes a restaurant enjoyable?

RS: Atmosphere. A place that has a good vibe. It has to start with the quality of the food, service and presentation, but after that, it's the environment. You want to feel good being there.

TCG: This might be a ridiculous question, but what do you like to order?

RS: What's fun for me, especially when I travel, is to sit down in a restaurant and order several different veal dishes, see what I like, and bring those preparation ideas home.

TCG: If you could only have one food the rest of your life, what would it be?

RS: Unlimited Veal Milanese. And chocolate nonpareils for dessert. That's two, but you've got to have dessert.

When you're preparing veal in Randy Strauss's honor, you'd better bring your "A" game.

And so we have, with a special dinner we invite all Milwaukeeans to enjoy.
